

Sanjay K. Shetty, MD, MBA, FACR

Sanjay K. Shetty is the Executive Vice President for Corporate and Business Development of Steward Health Care System. Steward is the largest privately held, investor-owned health system in the country, with a focus on providing high quality, high value care through its integrated healthcare delivery model. Previous to this, he served as President of Steward Medical Group, an 1,800-provider multispecialty practice with providers in 11 states and as President of Steward's ACO, Steward Health Care Network, where he was responsible for Steward's quality and financial performance under alternative payment models.

Dr. Shetty is actively involved in the state and national level activities of the American College of Radiology, including as Past President of the Massachusetts Radiological Society and a past member of the ACR national Council Steering Committee. Other roles have included service as Chair of the national Resident and Fellows Section, a member of the RADPAC Board, and a course director for the Leadership Accelerator course at the RLI, in addition to work on numerous national committees in economics, government relations, and membership. He is an Associate Clinical Professor of Radiology at Tufts University School of Medicine. Prior to joining Steward, he was a consultant at Bain & Company.

He is a graduate of Harvard College (A.B. summa cum laude), Harvard Medical School (MD), and the Wharton School (MBA), and he was a resident, chief resident, and fellow in Radiology at the Massachusetts General Hospital. He was recognized by the Boston Business Journal as one of "Boston's 40 Under 40" in 2012 and by Becker's Hospital Review in its listing of "Rising Stars: 25 Healthcare Leaders Under 40" in 2013.
