

Valerie P. Jackson, MD, FACR

Valerie P. Jackson, MD, FACR, graduated from Indiana University School of Medicine in 1978, completed her radiology residency there in 1982, and then served on the faculty until 2014. Dr. Jackson was the Residency Program Director for ten years and Chairman of the Department from January 2003 through May 2014. She is currently the Eugene C. Klatte Professor Emeritus of Radiology. Since 2014, she has been the Executive Director of the American Board of Radiology (ABR).

Dr. Jackson has been involved in research, education, and national service for many years, primarily in the areas of breast imaging and radiology education. Dr. Jackson has authored more than 110 publications and numerous book chapters. She was an author and editor for two editions of a major breast imaging textbook. She has given over 500 presentations on education and breast imaging nationally and internationally.

She was a member of the American College of Radiology (ACR) Board of Chancellors from 1996 to 2003, chairing the Commission on Education. She is a Past President of the Society of Breast Imaging (SBI) and the ACR. As a member of the ABR Board of Trustees, she was in charge of the breast imaging section. She is currently the President of the Radiological Society of North America (RSNA). She has been awarded Gold Medals by the Indiana Radiological Society, SBI, ACR, and the Association of University Radiologists.